

UNTAMED BY GLENNON DOYLE

The Better Book Clubs Review:

Throughout this memoir, Doyle is relentless in her search for self-knowledge. The central question at the heart of the memoir is: How do we remain true to our innermost truths, even when the world would have us choose otherwise, and, more importantly—how do we arrive at those innermost stories when the world would make us the protagonists of a different story?

Our book club was a bit divided on the approach and context of this memoir, but this book helped create amazing conversations. An hour and a half of book club talk was not enough! Everyone finished the book and would recommend to specific woman or men in their lives. We all think this is worth a read!
